Nervous Prostration

Complete Recovery by the Use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, and unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been helpless today had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I can say too much."

The Democratic income tax law has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, and the large amount already collected will have to be returned.

The price of wheat has risen from 48 to 75 cents in the last three months.

As the Journal contends that the low price of wheat is due to the fall in the price of silver, we would like to ask if anybody knows of the price of silver raising to correspond. Will the Journal please speak out.

EVERY OWNER of a life insurance policy, every stockholder in a building and loan association, every depos-itor in a savings bank, in fact any laborer who has money invested in any security that is not by contract made payable in gold, will have his deeds scaled down one-half by the free coinage of silver.

The attorney general has reversed his decision regarding the game and fish commission, and now says that the act of the late legislature does not negate them out of office as he previously held. The present members of the commission will therefore continue to hold their offices until their commissions expire, much to the chagrin of several gentlemen who were patiently waiting to step into their shoes.

A PLAN has been set on foot by John Wardman to build and operate a free hotel in Philadelphia. It will be a place where the needy, the homeless and the wretched are to be given food and lodging without money and without price. Free is the exact word. The place is to have no income.

It is to be supported by private charity. Special attention is to be paid to inebriates who desire to reform, according to the press dispatches. The fortune of the originator of the idea is large enough to carry out the plan, but he says he will endeavor to get outside charity to help, and failing in this will shoulder the burden alone. It is unnecessary to add that the hostelry will be well patronized from the start.

A Grass Seed Row.

The Morrison County Democrat makes a number of charges against the county commissioners in regard to the purchase of grass seed under the late appropriations. It is alleged that the commissioners, in purchasing the seed from a St. Paul seed firm, ignored a bid of $559 less than the bid accepted. It is further alleged that in appointing the seed, the grossest favoritism was practiced.

Russia, not England, is heretofore to be the arbiter of the destinies of the Old World nations Chatham, Palmerston and Beaconsfield would turn over in their graves with shame if they could see how their country has declined in power and prestige under the rule of their degenerate successors.

Admiral Meade appears to have retired from the navy for the purpose of securing an opportunity to denounce the administration for its lack of Americanism without being court-martialed for disrespect to his superior officers.

Racing was much encouraged by Charles H. after his restoration; he gave public rewards and prizes, and appointed races for his own amusement at Datchet Mead, where he resided at Windsor. But the most distinguished for these exercises was at Newmarket.

The delivian Japan is encouraging in Eastern Asia is likely to present some odd features. On the Loos Choo islands, between Formosa and Japan, not a vehicle can be found, but the people have telephones and a mail service. The Orientals may need a little time, but they will catch up.

England may have a small opinion of all the American states except one, but it looks like had statesmen-suffice to offend them in a body by what is virtually an act of wanton incision. The force landed on the soil of Nicaragua was small, but its animals will be remembered, and may return to plague the inventor.

England and Wales furnished 23,732 army recruits in 1894, Scotland 2,322, and Ireland 3,446, as compared with 28,444, 3,046 and 3,357 respectively in 1893. The percentage of rejections was 40.3, as compared with 40.1 in 1893, 13,020 being rejected for "various ailments" and 11,358 for "want of physical development."

A New York paper estimates that 3,000 people leave that port every week for Europe, each on an average with $1,000 to spend, so that the steamship companies and Europe get at least $3,000,000 in hard American cash every week. This amounts to $150,000,000 a year, which is quite a serious drain upon the earnings of the United States.

Joseph Jefferson has been engaged by Yale college for a series of lectures at that university on dramatic art. What could be more significant of the broadening of opinion and sentiment that has taken place since the founding of the college? The appearance of a professional actor in the lecture room of the college founded in Puritanism would once have been cause for sessions and excommunication.

A missionary association of English women has lately published its eleventh annual report. In this report it is joyfully announced that the first three converts have just been baptized—a widow and her two sons. This is the spiritual result of eleven years' work, the expenditures during that period having been over $20,000. Comment is superfluous.

According to statistics furnished the state department by United States Consul Johnson, at Stuttgart, Germany, there is a remarkable decrease of emigration from Wurtemberg during five years, particularly to the United States. In 1891 the total emigration was 5,629 persons and in 1894 the number fell to 2,541, the decrease being almost wholly in the emigration to the United States.

It is stated that between 11,000 and 12,000 persons of Eastern Russia, recently converted to Christianity, have voluntarily returned to their native countries. Heredity and habit are strong, and the mixture of Shamanism and Lamaism, in which these semi-barbarians have been reared, undoubtedly offers more pungent attractions to their wild and superstitious natures than the clear rationalism of Christianity.

At the last meeting at Paris of the French Academy of Sciences, Drs. Reclus and Terrier announced the discovery of seven new kinds of cancerous and cancerous tumors. Such hopeless cases have been cured. The system of cultivating the vaccine is the same as that adopted by Ronx for diphtheria. The patients are treated with the serum obtained from the blood of dogs previously inoculated with cancerous fluid. Further experiments are being made.

In the thirteenth year of George I., an act was passed for the suppression of races by ponies and other small and weak horses, by which all hatches for any prize under the value of $250 are prohibited under a penalty of $1,000, to be paid by the owner of each horse running; and by $500 by each advertiser of the plate; and by which each horse owner is obliged to five years old obliged to carry 10 stone; if six, 11; and if seven, 12.

There is general alarm in Canada about the largely increased emigration this spring from the dominion to the United States. Three years of bad business and poor crops have completely discouraged a large element of the Canadian population. Meanwhile news comes of increased wages and increased business in the states, which accounts for the increased Canadian railway companies are using to the utmost advantage. They have men in the counties of Rimonski, Matane and Bonaventure, Quebec, who have induced whole families to embark, bag and baggage, for the United States. The number of desert-far is something enormous.

The United States postal authorities are not much exercised over the reported intention of the lottery companies to carry on their business through the banks and telegraph companies. Under this system, it is said, tickets could not be delivered to buyers, but could only be registered in the office of the lottery company as belonging to them. The buyers would thus be entirely at the companies' mercy and would hardly be numerous. Further, the cost of telegraphing would eat up most of the profits of the business, and the next session of congress would unquestionably pass a law to stop the new method.

British ex-slaveholder extruded in Argentina, is the Napoleon of his class. His chief characteristic was religious phylanthropy, with which he worked himself into the good graces of pious people, and then robbed them of their surplus cash by the seizure of property.

Only Know

Thousands write that they suffered intensely with nervousness and were cured by this great medicine. The building-up powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla are wonderful. Even a few doses are sufficient to create an appetite, and from that time on its healing, purifying, strengthening effects are plainly felt. The nerves become stronger, the sleep becomes natural and refreshing, the hands and limbs become steady, and soon "life seems to go on without effort," and perfect health is restored. Such the work which Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing for hundreds of women today.

WHY THEY PAINT THEIR FACES

include Legend Which Accounts for the Red Man's Ceremonial Custom.

"Why do Indians paint their faces?" asked a young girl of her father, who had just returned from a visit to the reservation. "I have heard that the Red Men paint their faces, and have received but one answer. One of the tribes that I have visited but one has the legend according to which they are decorating their faces so that they can be seen on the faces of Indians under all ceremonial circumstances."

She asked him sitting at a campfire in a village of Jacarilla Jacarilla in a night listening to the stories and legends of the Red Men. "I have heard that," he answered the old question again, hardly expecting even the usual expression of ignorance that hides so many of the thoughts of the Indians. To my surprise, however, I received the answer that I least expected, says a writer in the St. Louis Globe Democrat.

An old fellow who had sat all the evening listening to the stories with-

Proceeding with all due solemnity, he told me the following legend. "The first man who lived on this island was a chief of the red men who lived in the mountains. He and his animals were big and strong, and he was very brave. One day, after walking all day he saw a deer. He followed it until it turned aside and wounded a mountain lion, which was also after the deer. The lion leaped at the deer, and the arrow he jumped up and sounded. After the man, who ran for his life, saw the lion, he was so frightened he felt his strength give way, he fell to the ground, calling on the big bear, the big eagle, the big wolf, and the men, to save him. The big bear heard the call and said that to save the man he would have to kill the lion. The lion's foot and sprained his leg. He crawled on the ground, and the man followed him. When the lion reached the man he face of the man, leaving the marks of his claws on the bloody face. When the man found that he was uninjured, he looked at the blood on his face and nervously washed it off at all, but left it until it peeled off. Where the claws of the man scraped it off there were marks on his face. The man looked at them and where the blood stayed on it was lighter. You know, all men paint paint; their faces that way with blood and scrape it off in streaks when they hurt or go to war."

Comely Middle-Age.

A friend whose years are verging on the half century says that never in her remembrance have middle-aged women, as a rule, looked so well got up and altogether comely as they do now. Either from a more rational method of treating the hair or because the present ways of dressing it are favorable to its growth, the abundance of gray and white locks is remarkable; and, although the masses of coils and curly fringes may sometimes owe a little to art, in numbers of cases the thickness of the unmistakably natural growth amply justifies the harmless addition. Then, too, the increase ing dependence of routine life and the interest felt by most women in sensible occupations and subjects, have swept away forever that absurd appearance of age without self-reliance or freedom which used to distinguish the elderly spinster, entirely nullifying such attractions as she might still possess.

Proclamation.
The coming of Memorial Day tenderly reminds us of the yearly reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic, when the living veterans crown with flowers the graves of their dead comrades, and should remind every true American citizen of the sacred obligation resting upon each one to hold in grateful remembrance the heroic men who counted not their lives dear unto themselves.
I therefore urge upon all citizens to observe the day in the true spirit which suggested the beautiful custom of setting it apart, whether the heroes rest under marble mausoleums or in unmarked graves, to the end that we may renew in our hearts a fuller appreciation of the duty we owe them, and that their example may instill a deep love for our country and our flag in rising generations.
To every true American patriot Memorial Day is the most sacred day of the year; it is the nation's Sabbath, and its proper observance is one of the nation's strongest safeguards. It is sacred to the memory of the dead heroes, and should be observed as a solemn memorial day rather than as a noisy holiday.
The offices in the several municipal departments will be closed on Memorial Day, and the officers and employees of the city are requested to participate in the exercises of the day, as invited by the G. A. R.
I would also request that all stores and places of business be closed in the morning until 10 o'clock, and between 1 and 5 in the afternoon.

Tom Thumb, the smallest living actress, and her company of Egyptian comedians, will give two performances at the Sleeper Opera House on Tuesday, May 28th, afternoon at 3 p. m., and evening at 8:30. This special matinee will be given for the benefit of ladies and children, and the price will be 25c. for children and 35c. for adults to all parts of the house. Evening prices 25, 50 and 75c. This will prove the novelty of the season. During the day Mrs. Tom Thumb and her pony team will be seen on the street. The company is the largest Egyptian company ever organized, and has been crowding the theatres in the largest eastern cities. They come direct from Minneapolis and St. Paul where they have been playing to crowded houses nightly. A great many persons can still recall the story of excitement that agitated the world when Gen. Tom Thumb and his wife, assisted by Miss Minnie Warren and dashing little Commodore Nutt, first made their appearance before the public. This will positively be the last opportunity or seeing these clever little people. At the conclusion of the present season they will retire to private life. The sale of seats will commence at the McFadden Drug Co's store on Friday, May 24th.

An Interesting Letter.
We print below the following extract from a letter written by Rev. J. C. Huntington, well known to many of our readers, to Rev. Edmonds, of this city:
"My plans for reaching Minnesota by May 1st and coming in by the N. P. did not turn out as I had hoped. Work in the western part of Kansas, where failure of crops have reduced the people to destitution and almost starvation, called me there. I came here to do a little work and get a little enjoyment at the same time. I visited last Sunday the famous Cradle Creek and Bull Hill mining towns. These are in the great gold producing section, and even made more money last year by the scenes enacted with the miner's war. Jack Smith, known as Gen. Jack, a desperado and all around bad man, who led the miners, was shot by the marshal together with a companion. He had threatened to shoot the marshal on sight and attempted to do so, but was not successful. This occurred the day I left there. The day before I preached twice and attended two Sunday schools, and that night slept in a board bunk not furnished with sheets or pillows, and it was occupied by three men and a Winchester rifle. There was a saloon each side of the shanty going all night, and various alarms to keep me from resting, so I did not have the best of sleep. The ride by rail and stage over the mountains was fine. On the 'Midland' the road-bed rises 1000 feet in five miles and passes through eight tunnels. But the greatest experience I have had was descending Pike's Peak by the road I speak of to Cripple Creek goes half way round the mountain, 50 or 60 miles, that town being on the opposite side from Colorado Springs. The Pike Peak road is about nine miles long, and in that distance rises over 8000 feet, about 2000 feet higher than Mt. Washington is above sea level. Pike's Peak is about 14000 feet above the sea. The air at the top was very rare, of course, and I found it difficult to breathe and move. The scenery in this wonderful land is past description. The mountains, the gorges and canyons, the monuments of stone, the endless caverns, the mountain streams and water-falls—well they are God's work, and what he does he does like a God. Saturday I go back to my missionary work and by June 1st hope to see Minnesota."

Honored and Influential Citizen.
Speaking of J. B. Sargent, who died in this city some days ago, the Mr. Vernon (La.) Hawk-Eye says:
J. B. Sargent, one of the early pioneers, who was well known and remembered by all of our older citizens, came to this county in 1838, died at his home at Brainerd, Minn., Monday evening, May 6th, 1895. For many years he was an honored and influential citizen of this township, and continued to reside here until after the death of his wife, which occurred in June, 1882. Since then he has been living at and near Brainerd, Minn. He owned a large tract of land at Gull Lake, a summer resort near Brainerd. For two months past he had been in poor health, and April 25th he went to a hospital at Brainerd, where he remained until his death last Monday evening. The doctors pronounced his disease a cancerous condition of the stomach, complicated with disease of the kidneys. His remains were brought here yesterday morning for burial, accompanied by his son, Charles, and daughter, Mrs. Bertha Lynn. His funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and by his request he was given a Masonic burial. His remains were laid to rest beside his wife in the Lisbon Cemetery.

Revival Meetings.
Revival meetings are still going on every night at the Second Congregational Church, and will be continued all next week. The audiences have been large and overflow meetings will be held nightly at the Zion Evangelical Church when necessary. Evangelist Davis desires the co-operative assistance of all Christians in Brainerd. One pleasing feature in the meetings is the fine singing by 44 children. There will be services at 11 and 8 respectively on Sunday. All are welcome.

Light.
When the world was young, man was only a child, with a child's thoughts. Probably the first man, at the close of the first day, was frightened when darkness fell, and wondered whether the light would ever come again. And since, he has, like a child, been continually learning something about light. At one time he supposed the eye was the source of the light, because he saw nothing unless his eyes were open. The great philosopher, Newton, propounded the corpuscular theory, that light is an impermeable substance, whose colors depend on the velocity of transmission. Reflection he compared to the rebounding of an elastic body, while refraction was due to interferences in transparent bodies, which allowed the particles of light to pass through. This idea was accepted for many years, but has now been practically displaced by Huygen's undulatory theory, that light is propagated by the vibrations of the impermeable ether. On this theory the transmission of light is like that of sound, and a corollary of it is that there are lights of different colors, the variety of hue not being caused by varying velocities. Three peculiarities of light are its universal diffusion, its rapidity of motion, and its usefulness. The works of man never equal those of Nature, but in these three respects the Burlington Route resembles light. An examination of the map shows its diffusion over the West; the use of its tickets will convince of the speed of its trains; an acquaintance with the hundreds of prosperous towns and cities on its lines demonstrate its usefulness. Apply to your home agent for tickets and information, or address W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.
